A COMPENDIUM OF WHAT'S IN PLAY NOW • EDITED BY JULIAN SANCTON

1

Your tired, your poor, your huddled masses? Bring 'em on. But the plaque said nothing about superstorms. Eight months after Sandy flooded its island and battered its infrastructure, the Statue of Liberty is reopening on Independence Day. JULY 4

2

The Jets and the Sharks meet the Brahmins, the most fearsome gang at Tanglewood, as the Boston Symphony Orchestra performs Leonard Bernstein's score for West Side Story to accompany a screening of the newly remastered 1961 film. JULY 13

3 >

Extraterrestrially eccentric Icelandic songstress Björk, on tour with her album Biophilia, opens the Pitchfork Music Festival in Chicago's Union Park. More than 40 acts will perform, including Yo La Tengo, R. Kelly and Joanna Newsom. JULY 19-21

4

While his brother, David, joined the family business and his sister, Dylan, fashioned herself as a latter-day Willy Wonka, Andrew Lauren, Ralph's eldest, proved to be the cinephile of the brood. His latest coproduction, Sundance dramedy The Spectacular Now, is out today. AUGUST 2

5

Feel free to shush chatty museum-goers at New York's MoMA, which presents "Soundings: A Contemporary Score," its first major exhibition devoted to sound art. The show will feature aural artists from across the globe, as well as a museum-wide installation of bells. AUGUST 10-NOVEMBER 3

6

First place goes not to the fastest cars but to the prettiest—and most historically accurate—at the Pebble Beach Concours d'Elegance. Classic automobiles and one-of-a-kind supercars compete on the 18th fairway of the storied golf course, as the world's top collectors look on with the overprotectiveness of pageant moms. AUGUST 18
